PAX!

The Manila Institute for Culinary Arts and Residential Services or MICARS (formerly Maligaya Institute) has sent the PESO a letter requesting for referrals for interested young women who are interested in studying culinary arts. They are offering scholarships for their 2-year Culinary Arts and Institutional Services (CAIS) course to deserving but not financially able students. After the course, the graduates will be "multi-skills" workers in the Tourism Sector and they will be holders of four (4) TESDA National Certificates – Cookery, Housekeeping, Bread and Pastry Production and Food and Beverage Services.

This is a great opportunity for our beloved young women Muntinlupeños to achieve their dreams of becoming a Culinary Arts graduates. I have attached a copy of the letter as well as the flyers and brochure for you perusal. I believe disseminating such information to the PIO, YASDO, DEPED, PLMUN and MCTI as well as to the community leaders will further push not only the information but the opportunity to the community/grass-roots level.

Thank you very much.

MICARS

Manila Institute for Culinary Arts and Residential Services
(formerly Maligaya Institute)

February 1, 2017

PESO Officer
Muntinlupa City

Dear Ma'am/Sir,

Greetings!

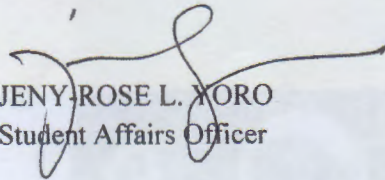

Manila Institute for Culinary Arts and Residential Services (MICARS) is a non-stock, non-profit technical-vocational school that offers skills training courses in culinary arts and institutional services. It aims to provide women in the urban areas livelihood and employment skills, work attitudes and Christian values that contribute to their economic, social, human and spiritual development.

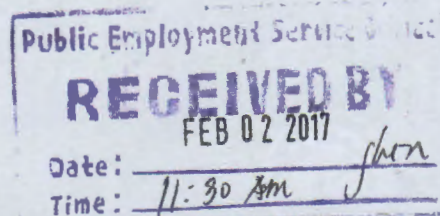

In this regard, we are requesting for your cooperation through referrals of young women who are interested in studying culinary arts but do not have enough funds to pay the usual exorbitant tuition fees of culinary schools. MICARS has available scholarships for our 2-year Culinary Arts and Institutional Services (CAIS) course to deserving but not financially able students. After their studies, our graduates will be multi-skilled workers in the Tourism Sector since they will be holders of four (4) TESDA National Certificates -- Cookery NCII, Housekeeping NCII, Bread and Pastry Production NCII and Food and Beverage Services NCII. Please see attached brochure and flyer for details.

Interested participants can come and take the exams at MICARS every Friday at 8AM. They should bring their requirements when they come to the school.

Looking forward to helping train the constituents of your city.

Sincerely,

JENY-ROSE L. XORO
Student Affairs Officer

WELCOME TO MICARS

Professional cuisine made with great passion and heart. A home prepared with elegance down to the last detail. Young women who know how to infuse their work and daily life with love and joy. These are not mere ideals - they are lived everyday at Manila Institute for Culinary Arts and Residential Services (MICARS).

Students who enter MICARS know that they receive all the support they need to succeed. Armed with a scholarship, they embarked on learning without fear of financial obstacles. They sharpen their skills in state-of-the-art learning facilities from a professional, fully-equipped kitchen to laundry. They receive theoretical instruction and hands-on experience guided by certified trainers and chefs.
